SUN BEAMS

By WALTER M. BARRETT

Monday volunteer workers will be in the field here soliciting funds for the Red Cross. Last year, unfortunately Truckee was not asked to aid and there was a bit of sarcasm in reports that Truckee was unreported. This year will give us an opportunity to display what we can do for a worthy cause when asked. We hope Truckee far oversubscribes her quota as it usually does in such cases. There is little use of restating the fine work that is done each year by the Red Cross. We are all familiar with the program. However we are issuing a suppliment this week which we hope will be found of interest.

One of the most frequently asked questions these days is whether or not the young people of Truckee will be permitted the use of the new Veterans' Memorial building as a gymnasium and we can only answer that we sincerely hope so. We feel certain that no damage could result from properly supervised play in the hall although it will be equally as well appointed and fully as worthy of protection as the grammar school auditorium which has been refused the young people as a gym. There may be a few things barred from the veterans' hall, but we certainly hope children will not be included.

Along this same line, the thought occurs that during the approaching winter we might give some serious consideration to the establishment of a community park. We have the most natural background for such a project and what with all the federal aid work being done in the state, we can think of no more suitable program than an adequate park for our own pleasure as well as our thousands of visitors. At least the idea is worthy of thought.

After all it may be a long winter and if we can think constructively and forget about the fracas in Europe and other remote things of common topic, great things may be accomplished for Truckee. The park idea is only one of score of things which we could work toward to make our community better and more enticing for the tourist.

Carriers Act Is Explained During Meet

Official Of Commission In Local Meetin Tells Of Activities

There have always been laws regulating transporation. Initiated in B. C., and followed in records up to the present time.

This was one of the interesting facts brought out by H. W. Kerrigan, statistician for the California State Railroad commission in his address before the Rotary club Monday.

Although confining his talk to the subject of the Highway Carriers Act, Kerrigan, who is president of the American Olympics and an Olympic winner of 1906, spoke briefly on athletics.

Briefly, Kerrigan said, the Highway Carriers Act is an act regulating the use of the public highways for commercial purposes; conferring powers upon the railroad commission and porviding penalties.

The use of the public highways for transportation of property for compensation is a business affected with a public interest, he declared and it is declared the purpose of the act to provide for the public use and benefit of the highways consistent with the needs of commerce and without unnecessary congestion or wear and tear upon the roads. The act also provides a means of securing reasonable rates, to secure unrestricted flow of carriers over the highways which will meet public demands by providing for the regulation of rates by all transportation agencies.

But what brought regulation and rates on the highway about? Kerrigan asked. Afetr going over the history since the daybreak of history, giving examples and following roads built by the Romans into Britain in those early days, Kerrigan brought the story up to the time when, he said, came the real problem of regulation. That was the inception of the internal gas engine, when Segfried Markus bulit the first two cycle engine and attached it to a bicycle.

Following the period of Benz, Dammlier, Ford and others of our modern and early builders, he stated with 1904 there were 700 trucks on the highways; in 1914, 85,000; 1915, 136,000 and then up through the war period when building automobiles became one of our great industries.

Then the peak came in 1929 with 3,267,456 motor trucks, but overnight came the depression and the demand for transportation became less and every truck went out for its self with the result of rate slashing. Facing a calamity, the railroad commission began a study of the situation and after 46 hearing held in as many places with hundreds of witnesses and thousands of pages of transcript and a survey of the highway and the Highway Carriers Act was born.

It was voted and became a law in 1935 with Warren K. Brown, director of Transportation organizing the department of the commission for the purpose.

The commission during the many years of its existance has held 33,865 hearings, passing on 77,543 informal matters connected with utilities, authorizing securties to the amount of $4,414,684,790 and reducing rates to the amount of $880,867,480.56 accumulative since 1921.

The C. R. C. is recognized as one of the outstanding public utilities and has achieved signal success during the last quarter of a century.

Justice Brandeis once wrote:

"During a period of many years it has been my observation that the C. R. C. has been one of the most fundamentally sound, far sighted and most continuously able regulatory bodies in this country."

Truckee Turns Thumbs Down On Ham, Eggs

Seven to One Vote Against Retirement Issue Is Polled Here

NO. 5 GETS MAJORITY

Only 51 Votes Received By Ham and Eggs From Truckee

Truckee turned thumbs down very definitely on the so-called Ham and Eggs scheme in Tuesday's special election and while the idea was given a total of 51 votes here, the plan lost by nearly 7 to 1 while the balance of the state showed the scheme defeated by a two to one majority.

Of the 395 votes cast at the two Truckee precincts, 337 voted against Ham and Eggs with 51 in favor. Of these 12 yes votes were cast in Precinct No. 2 and 39 in Precinct No. 1.

Voting on a similar proposition at the polls last November, Truckee gave 156 yes ballots and 290 noes.

On Proposition No. 5, Truckee gave the proponents a big majority. Of the total vote, 305 voted "yes" on this proposition and only 90 voted "no", but throughout the state the noes won by a big vote, according to latest returns.

The Truckee Vote on the five propositions was tabulated as follows:

No. 1— Yes: 51; No: 337.
No. 2— Yes: 83; No: 278.
No. 3— Yes: 283; No: 77.
No. 4— Yes: 287; No: 70.
No. 5— Yes: 305; No: 90.

Soda Springs Precinct gave the Ham and Eggs a little better vote with the unofficial count on the five issues reported as follows:

No. 1— Yes: 12; No: 34.
No. 2— Yes: 11; No: 32.
No. 3— Yes: 33; No: 10.
No. 4— Yes: 30; No: 10.
No. 5— Yes: 35; No: 11.

Tahoe City defeated Ham and Eggs by less than 3 to 1 and went strong for No. 5. The count there was as follows:

No. 1— Yes: 47; No: 127.
No. 2— Yes: 51; No: 108.
No. 3— Yes: 103; No: 51.
No. 4— Yes: 96; No: 50.
No. 5— Yes: 139; No: 32.

Tahoe set a new voting record with a total of 181 votes cast.

In the unofficial state returns as compiled late yesterday, it was found that every county in the state went against the Ham and Eggs, the score being more than two to one.

Only two of the five measures on the ballot passed, Propositions No. 3 and 4, the Shelley-Wollenberg Acts for state regulation of loan sharks and the limitation of small loan interest charges.

Proposition No. 2, the chiropractic initiative on which the chiropractic profession itself split during the campaign, was snowed under as bad as the Thirty-Thursday.

The Atkinson Oil and Gas Conservation Act, Proposition No. 5, was beaten by a narower margin but no less decisive despite the endorsement of the President, the Navy and Gov. Olson.

The Ham and Egg sponsors, in announcing a move to recall Gov. Olson said that a combination of millions of dollars and political treachery proved too much to overcome. Others expressed a different reason.

ARMISTICE DAY 1939

The wild cheering that swept around the world that day in November 1918 when embattled men lay down their arms, joyously confident that war had come to an end not for a

Soldiers, millions strong, again man the trenches along week or a year but for good, echoes sadly in all hearts today. Europe's ancient battle line of the silvery Rhine. Northward along the gray stretches of the Baltic, small nations surrender in bloodless conquest before threatening Might. Westward, across the Pacific, more millions are locked in the deadly embrace of warfare to the bitter end.

The hopes uttered, the dreams visioned, the treaties solemnly signed a score of years ago to seal the doom of war, have alike disappeared from many quarters of the earth. The resort to violence has again prevailed.

But in America, because of this, the will to peace is no idle gesture on Armistice Day 1939. As the veterans of '17 and '18 parade down the streets of American cities this Saturday they know, as all onlookers know, that America cannot celebrate the war that was to end all wars. But America can celebrate the precious gift of peace. It can celebrate the fact that the Armistice of 1918 still prevails for America in the warring world of 1939! In so celebrating, America pledges itself to halt ay black-out of Armistice in this nation.!

GOING UP

Uncle Sam's count ng house made significant history with an announcement last week.

Overshadowed by the arms embargo debate in Congress and the spirited battle over Thirty-Thursday in California, it failed to claim the attention it deserved. But long after ham-and-eggs and the neutral ty dispute are matters of history, thecountry will find this matter of momentous concern.

Last week the public debt made history when, for the first time, it rose above the $41 billion mark. That comes perilously close to the $45 billion l.mit. It forecasts certain demands at the next session of Congress for stretching that limit by at least $5 billion more.

"Public debt" sounds impersonal and far away, but the man in the street cannot afford indifference to it. The simple truth is that the national debt of $41 billion reached last week makes every man, woman and child in the country a national debtor to the extent of $311. That sum must be paid.

To the 95 per cent who pay no taxes directly to the government, debt presents its claim indirectly in scores of ways.

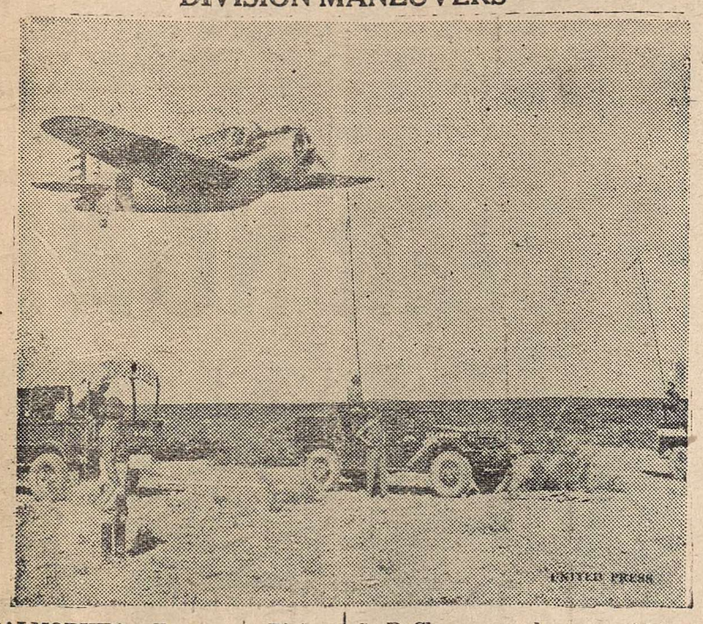
DIVISION MANEUVERS



BALMORHEA, Texas — Picture shows a plane of the 22nd Observation Squadron, flown by Lieutenant C. H. Stockdale with Lieutenant A. G. DeChaene as observer, picking up an artillery map for use of pilot observing the maneuvers.

FAIR NIGHT AT TAHOE PROVES TO BE SUCCESS

TAHOE CITY, Nov. 9.— The World's Fair Night costume ball given by a group of Tahoe matrons headed by Mrs. Dian Grover for the benefit of the Community center building fund was pronounced an outstanding success, both financially and socially. In fact, patrons attended from a number of states including Montana, Kansas, Nevada and California. Many were presnt from Truckee and Reno, $61 being taken in at the door aside from the ticket sales.

First prize for the men's best costume was awarded Norman Mayfield, attired as Uncle Sam; first for the ladies went to Mrs. Oscar Quam of Tahoe, who was garbed as Dale Arden of the comic papers; men's second went to Harry Johanson, who depicted Flash Gordan and the ladies second prize went to Mrs. Mildred Osgood of Truckee, who made a very charming old fashioned girl of the Civil war days.

The judges wer faced with a difficult task as the costumes were all varied and original.

The jitterbug contest was won by Betty Lou Hudson of Truckee and her partner Frank Apichino of Nevada. Close seconds were Bill Dedrick and his partner whose name was not learned.

The sideshows proved popular and afforded much merriment. Sandwiches and coffee were served at a late hour to conclude the jolly affair..

TAHOE CITY, Nov. 9.— Tahoe City is now enjoying its new water system which has been in operation for some days. New fire hydrants have been placed at advantageous places about the town insuring greater fire protection and thus reducing rates.

EARLY HISTORY OF TRUCKEE AS FOUND IN EDWARD'S TOURIST GUIDE AND DIRECTORY OF THE TRUCKEE BASIN

Following is another in a series of articles on the early history of Truckee taken from Edward's Tourist Guide and History of the Truckee Basin, compiled in 1883.

Justices of the Peact were elected, the first two being D. E. Sykes and J. E. Jones. The first constable was Andrew Andrews, who after holding office for a little over a year, resigned and Jacob Teeters was appointed in his place.

The office of constable was no sinecure in those days. It required a man of nerve and will. He must either "face the music or take water." Emergencies always bring such men to the front, and the requirements of these times were no exception to the rule. Jacob Teeters proved to be the man requisite for the duties of the hour. Perfectly fearless, he was soon the terror of the evil doers, and many a sore head testified to his prowess. When he started to arrest an offender, it was conceded that the arrest would be made; he carried his life constantly in his hand, and was not afraid to risk it in the perservation of law and order. His favorite weapon was a pick handle.

"It was more quickly loaded and not near so apt to miss fire" as the requlation navy. Murders were frequent and it required but slight provocation to elicit the inquiry, "are you heeled?" and the firing began Many by the fued engendered by the presence of the Mongolian that was settled summarily, the Chinaman usually getting the worst of it.

The first killig, or rather murder of which there is any record, or at least that called for the attention of the law, was the murder of a man named Hamilton, who was found dead one morning on the grade about where the Catholic cemetery now stands. Judge Jones convened a coroner's jury of whom are known to be still living John Keiser and Eli Church. The verdict was that the party came to death at the hands of some person or persons unknown. This was the first coroner's jury ever assembled in Truckee.

In '68 Schaffer and Gray built their first sawmill and in '68 active work was begun on the railroad Rapidl ythe village increased in population and importance and a trriving town had grown up. Truckee was made the terminus of one of the divisions of the Central Pacific Railroad and a roundhouse was built It was the chief town between Sacramento and Ogden and bid fair to become a flourishing city.

Courtesy

HOW one appreciates courtesy! It may be expressed in one's opening of a door, in a smiling "Thank you," in the gracious doing of a commonplace duty, or in listening with interest to another's views. Courtesy includes deference and respectfulness. Yet, is there not something more than deference and respect involved in genuine courtesy? Indeed there is. It is love for mankind. Henry Drummond has spoken of courtesy as "love in little things."

If one truly loves, does he not express that love in even his least contact with others—in thoughtfulness for others, in deeds of kindness, in little helpful acts, all of which constitute what we are pleased to call courtesy?

Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, in her "Miscellaneous Writings," says (p. 250): "Love is not something put upon a shelf, to be taken down on rare occasions with sugar-tongs and laid on a rose-leaf. I make strong demands on love, call for active witnesses to prove it, and noble sacrifices and grand achievements as its results." And she also says, "As a human quality, the glorious significance of affection is more than words: it is the tender, unselfish deed done in secret; the silent, ceaseless prayer; the self-forgetful heart that overflows."

The Apostle Peter admonished thus (1 Peter 3:8, 9): "Be ye all of one mind, having compassion one of another, love as brethren, be pitiful, be courteous: not rendering evil for evil, or railing for railing: but contrariwise blessing."

The dictionary defines "courtesy," in part, as "an act of kindness, or favor performed with politeness." But what, then, is the source of inherent kindliness and considerateness?

The real man is not the mortal, so-called man, who may or may not be kind. The man of God's creating is His own image and likeness, as stated in Genesis. And since God is Love, man is the forever expression of Love; hence love and kindness are inherent qualities of the real man.

But one may ask, Why do some persons appear to express much of love, while others seem almost devoid of it, and at times may be even discourteous and disagreeable? May not the logical explanation be that some are allowing man's true being as Love's reflection to find expression through their thinking and living; while others may have their thoughts so filled with a false sense of evil as real that love and goodness are not manifested through their thinking or living?

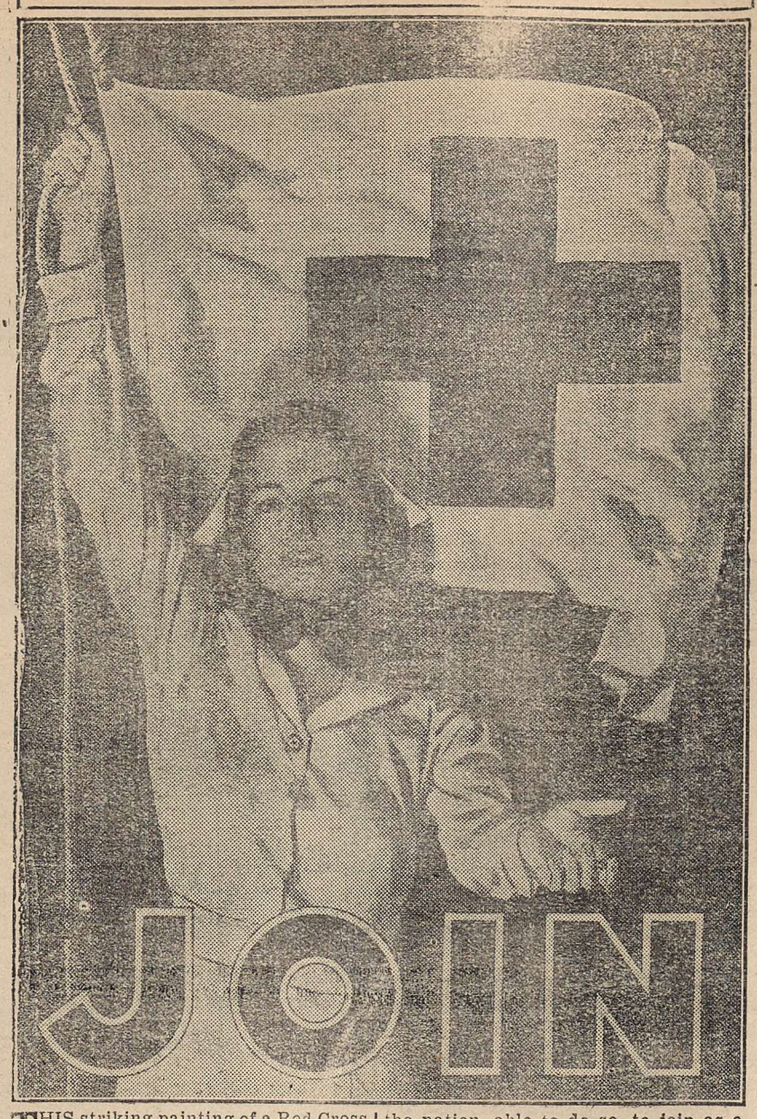
True courtesy expresses love. And loving consideration expressed to another arouses a kindred response from that one. The writer witnessed an example of this in a crowded streetcar one evening. Two women were standing in the aisle when a seat was vacated. The one who was obviously a worker made no attempt to take the seat, evidently expecting the other to do so. But instead, noting the telltale bag of the domestic servant, the other asked, "Have you been working all day?" To which there was a meek, "Yes, ma'am." "Then you take the seat," was the response. Soon the other was also seated, and when the worker arose to leave the car, she bestowed a most gracious and appreciative smile upon her courteous benefactor.

Is not the test of true culture, which must include courtesy, found in the respect with which one treats others?

All of God's children express equally His infinite love. Hence God loves all, and forever expresses through men His universal goodness and love. All men are in reality the children of God, subject to His love and care. When this is comprehended, one is enabled to look through and beyond the false sense of personality, differences in social standing, education, and race, and to see and love the man of God's creation.

Such a one will always be found manifesting loving thoughtfulness, consideration, and kindliness to all, even in the least of human affairs—in that expression of true culture which is known as courtesy. And need we add that he who includes all in his bestowal of courtesy has glimpsed the love which characterizes the real man, who reflects and expresses God, divine, impartial Love?—The Christian Science Monitor.

KEEP YOUR RED CROSS READY



THIS striking painting of a Red Cross nurse keeping the symbol of mercy flying is the keynote of the 1939 appeal for membership in the American Red Cross. Faced with the need for strengthening daily Red Cross services in 3,700 Chapters, and with its chartered obligation to aid in some measure in meeting the distress of the men, women and children refugees in war-torn countries across the sea, the Red Cross asks every man and woman in the nation, able to do so, to join as a member this year and support America's official voluntary relief agency.

Ruskin Williams, a distinguished artist, is creator of this ideal conception of the nurse heroine.

The roll call for members will be held November 11 to 30—join through your local Chapter. Help your Red Cross help others by becoming one of the millions who will add their names to the roll of mercy.

GOOD LIGHTING PREVENTS THIS IN YOUR BRIDGE HAND

EVER get a spade mixed with your clubs? It won't happen if you have enough light on the bridge table. For it's a scientific fact that good lighting automatically draws your attention to such mistakes.

And good lighting does another thing to your bridge game. By making it easier for you and your guests to see the cards, it relieves the strain—puts new pep into the party. Psychologists have proved that good lighting is stimulating even for tasks which do not require close, prolonged eye-use. 75 or 100-watt MAZDA lamps in good fixtures and reading lamps will give you hours of seeing comfort while you read, sew or study.

Snow surveyors making the long trek into French Meadows this coming winter will find food and shelter at the end of the trail on completion of the shelter hut upon which work has been started, G. E. Mitchell, the acting forest engineer of the Tahoe National Forest staff, announced.

The state division of water resources is cooperating with the forest service in the construction of the shelter and Fred Paget in charge of snow surveys for the state spent Sunday with L. S. Smith who is in charge of the work for the forest in selecting a suitable site.

Island Populated by Cats
Frigate island, a low coral rock with hardly any vegetation, 500 miles northeast of Mauritius in the Indian ocean, is populated by hundreds of thousands of cats. They live in burrows and are extremely savage. Their food is fish which they catch at night by forming a wide semi-circle just before low water, and cutting off all the fish left in pools and channels as the tide ebbs. The cats are said to be descended from a number of cats which landed on this "Isle of Cats" after a shipwreck many years ago.
